

Avoid Plagiarism with Epigeum's online course

An online course to help ensure you follow best practice in paraphrasing, referencing and citation

Avoiding Plagiarism is an introductory course suitable for undergraduate and postgraduate students in all disciplines. This updated course will help you prepare for assignments and understand how to avoid plagiarism, whether intentional or not.

Syllabus

- What is plagiarism?
- Key terms
- Types of plagiarism
- The importance of referencing
- Referencing systems
- Citations and references
- Strategies for avoiding plagiarism
- Paraphrasing
- Referencing tools
- Plagiarism in the news

Epigeum courses are designed to be flexible, so you can use the Avoiding Plagiarism course in a number of ways:

- As an online self-study resource which you can work through at your own pace, at a time and place which suits you
- The course is divided in sections. You can take it all at once or go to the section you wish
- You can use the course as a "discussion item" in your study group

To get access to "Avoiding Plagiarism" at Aarhus University, please find contact information on this website at AU Library:

<http://library.au.dk/en/students/plagiarism>